Frequently Asked Questions

What are the basic rules of basketball?

Basketball is played by two teams of five players each. The objective is to score points by shooting the ball through the opponent’s hoop. Players advance the ball by dribbling or passing. The game consists of four quarters, and the team with the most points at the end wins. Violations include traveling, double dribble, and shot clock violations.

How many points is a three-point shot worth in basketball?

A three-point shot is worth three points if the player shoots the ball from beyond the three-point line, which is an arc surrounding the basket.

What is the difference between a layup and a dunk?

A layup is a close-range shot where a player gently places the ball off the backboard into the basket, usually while moving. A dunk is a more forceful shot where the player jumps and scores by putting the ball directly through the hoop with one or both hands.

What does ‘double-double’ mean in basketball stats?

A ‘double-double’ occurs when a player accumulates double-digit numbers in two statistical categories during a game, commonly points and rebounds or points and assists.

Who is considered the greatest basketball player of all time?

While opinions vary, Michael Jordan is widely regarded as the greatest basketball player of all time due to his six NBA championships, five MVP awards, and impact on the sport.

What is the shot clock in basketball?

The shot clock is a timer designed to increase the pace of the game. In the NBA, teams have 24 seconds to attempt a shot after gaining possession. If they fail to shoot within that time, the opposing team gains possession.

How long is an NBA basketball game?

An NBA game consists of four quarters, each lasting 12 minutes, totaling 48 minutes of regulation play. Overtime periods are 5 minutes each if the game is tied at the end of regulation.

What are common fouls in basketball?

Common fouls include personal fouls like hitting, pushing, or blocking an opponent illegally; technical fouls for unsportsmanlike conduct; and flagrant fouls for severe or violent contact.

What is the role of a point guard in basketball?

The point guard is typically the team's primary ball-handler and playmaker. Their role is to direct the offense, distribute the ball, and set up scoring opportunities for teammates.
