Historical Background of Thyatira

Thyatira was originally founded as a Macedonian colony in the 3rd century BC and became an important city in the Roman province of Lydia. Its strategic location along major trade routes made it a bustling center of commerce and industry.

Economic Significance

The city's economy thrived on various industries, including:

1. Textiles: Thyatira was renowned for its dyeing industry, particularly for its purple dye, which was highly sought after in the ancient world.
2. Metalwork: The city also had a vibrant metalworking community, producing tools and weapons.
