Understanding Common and Proper Nouns

What are Common Nouns?

Common nouns refer to general names for a person, place, thing, or idea. They are not capitalized unless they begin a sentence. For instance, the words "city," "dog," and "happiness" all represent common nouns. Here are some characteristics of common nouns:

- They denote general items rather than specific ones.
- They are not capitalized unless they are part of a title or at the beginning of a sentence.
- They can be singular or plural (e.g., "cat" and "cats").

What are Proper Nouns?

Proper nouns, on the other hand, are specific names for individual people, places, organizations, or events. These nouns are always capitalized. Examples include "New York," "Eiffel Tower," and "Michael Jordan." Here are some features of proper nouns:

- They refer to unique entities.
- They are always capitalized.
- They do not have a plural form in the same sense as common nouns (e.g., "Google" remains "Google," not "Googles").
